the opening of the court yesterday morning the of Strong vs. Strong was called, and the counsel on sides having expressed their readiness for trial, the proceeded to empanel a jury. The case has been by before the courts, and the parties belong to the aristocratic circles. The plaintiff, who sues for a ce from his wife, is Peter R. Strong, a member of on, and in the subsequent North Carolina cam-and afterwards in the Departments of the South the Ohio. The defendant, Mrs. Mary E. Strong, ghter of John A. Stevens, of the Bank of Comis a daughter of John A. Stevens, of the Bank of Commerce.

The entire day was consumed in the empanelling of the jury. The jurors were in every instance challenged by the counsel for the defence, who accepted them only after a most searching investigation as to their impartiality to render a verdict according to the evidence.

The counsel for the plaintiff are Messrs. Hoffman and Cram, and for the defence Messrs. McKeen and others. The following are the names of the jurors:—Edward T. Draper, Job Long, Nathaniel C. Betts, John P. Worstell, James R. Smith, Willbey Gay, John J. Sigler, Robert Mackey, John N. Sickles, Charles Berry, John T. Willetts and Francis Burke.

The Judge instructed the jury is avoid hearing any remarks regarding the case, and the court was adjourned until this morning.

REMARKABLE THEFT—A SAFE WRIGHING 1,500 POUNDS GARRIED AWAY.—Yesterday morning, about one o'clock, the saddlery and harness store of Mr. F. A. Lutz, Jr., just below the National Hotel, was entered by robbers, and a safe weighing about fifteen hundred pounds was taken from the store and carried off. The safe contained about $1,200 in money, and notes, drafts, &c., amounting to between $500 and $1,000. The robbers entered through the back door, through which having bored a hole, they had access to the bolt that secured it, which they drew back, thus opening a convenient entrance, as well as subsequent exit with their extraordinary booty. We have frequently heard of "burglar-proof safes." Whether this has proved to be such, we could not decide.—Washington Intelligencer, Nec. 22.
